

Sermon Illustrations and Outlines of the Bible Topically Arranged

By KEITH L. BROOKS

(This book has been slightly revised, reformatted, and edited by the publisher of this revision)

PREFACE

A WORD TO MINISTERS AND BIBLE TEACHERS

The sermons that have done the most good in the world have been those that have been purely and simply declarations of saving truth. It is the exposition of the Word of God which makes most for the moral and spiritual improvement of men. The Word is "the Sword of the Spirit, " and surely the Holy Spirit prefers His own Sword to any instrument of our devising.

A sermon need not be limited to the exposition and enforcement of Scripture, for much of helpfulness is to be drawn from the books of nature and of human life. Jesus, in His preaching, opened up many of His texts with illustrations from nature and life. On the other hand, it is remarkable of the sermons of the New Testament that they are expository in nature and that much of the illustrative material used is drawn from incidents in the Old Testament.

There are no better sermon illustrations than those to be found in the Bible itself. This work is intended to aid the preacher and Bible teacher in locating the best of these, for whatever topic he may seek to illumine.

than the Word of God. We are saved by faith in the Word, not apparitions. The latter lead men into darkness.

Spiritualism. 1 Sam. 28. Saul and the witch. To think any spiritualistic medium can be of help when God has frowned upon us is to heap contempt upon God, who has expressly forbidden such intercourse, v. 14 is either a real appearance, allowed by God to announce Saul's doom to him, or a pretended appearance due to evil spirits, Seems to be real here, for Samuel came not at the woman's behest (note her fright and astonishment) but by Jehovah's command. Importance of the crisis in the affairs of Saul and the nation would seem sufficient reason for Jehovah's action. Note v. 8. Saul sneaks to a spiritist at night. Such works are of the darkness.

's favor and trust Him.

The answer shows the trials were not for something Job had done but for what he was. Had not the sentence of death in himself (see ch. 29). A good man but too much aware of it. He passes from a knowledge about God to a knowledge of God. Sees God and gets the humbling vision of self. The valley of humbling a blessed place.

Trials. Ex. 15:23-26. Bitter waters in the path of God's leading, speak of the trials that come to God's people for their edification, not punishment. The cross cast into the bitter waters will make them sweet, (v. 25; Gal. 3:13).
